About NES

The National Movement of India inspired the creation of numerous educational institutions, including the National School in Bangalore, established in 1917 with a foundation in Gandhian ideals. Initially founded on the premises of Doddanna Setty S.L.N. School, it grew under the leadership of visionaries like Dr. Annie Besant, who founded the National Education Society of Mysore in 1918, later renamed the National Education Society of Karnataka in 1973.

Dr. H. Narasimhaiah, an eminent educator and freedom fighter, served as the Society's President, leaving a profound impact as Principal of National College, Basavanagudi, and Vice-Chancellor of Bangalore University. His dedication to scientific temper and value-based learning earned him accolades, including the Padma Bhushan, and inspired the founding of the Bangalore Science Forum.

Now in its 109th year, the Society manages 22 institutions, including the newly established Dr. HN National College of Engineering in Jayanagar, Bengaluru. Through innovative curricula and vibrant platforms such as Science in Action, Supernova, Ranga Vaibhava, and national-level symposiums, the Society continues to nurture talent, inspire inquiry, and honor the nation's legacy

About Dr. HNNCE

The National Education Society is progressing on the footprints of the great visionary Dr. H. Narasimhaiah (HN). Vowing to his visions of providing education to all and all types (villages and downtrodden) the present NES management has planned to establish an Engineering college in a highly popular area of Bengaluru. The strong and highly respected alumni of National College across the world are coming forward to join their hands in establishing the proposed Engineering College as one of the best Technical colleges in the globe.
